Amiens. Aug 8 1918

This last Battle was the big drive made by French Australian & Canadian Troops and continued with all the force we could put into it for five days.

George was wounded the fourth day when we met strong resistance in the nature of barbed wire. Machine gun, Rifle fire and Artillery fire all at close range. As we were then all in the open and the enemy had trees, ditches, and old trenches for concealment we had a bad time of it for a while. But went at it again on the 5th day.

George's case was the same as in the case of all wounded. As soon as a man was wounded his wounds were attended to by his comrades and then he was hurried to a Dressing Station where the medical people took charge, dressed their wounds and sent them out by ambulance. We never saw the wounded after they reached the Dressing Stations.

I'm sorry. I cannot give you more details in reference to George's wounds. I did not know that he was wounded till late that night when all the Casualties came in by reports. But he was reported not fatal. And we were very surprised and grieved when his death was reported from the Hospital.

It always seemed true that when any of the boys got hit. It was one of my old 8th Battery boys & go. And I felt it keenly as they were with me so long that I took more than usual interest I lost two more of them a week before the armistice.

George developed into a splendid type of a soldier the last two years. For the first two he did not seem to be well. He did not look well and although he would not go to hospital he did not look fit.

But the last two years his health was good. He gave excellent service and was recommended for promotion by his officers. Had he lived he would certainly have been awarded both promotion and decoration for his services at Amiens.

The only posthumous decoration was the V.C.

There were only 15 of the old 8th Battery in the Army in France on Armistice Day. And I started away with 174.

The Battery that George was in only had one officer left after that fight so you will see that it was sharp fighting.

I shall be only too pleased to give you any information that I can at any time and will be pleased to hear from you at any time.

Yours sincerely

S. Blundell Lt Col.
