June 26th, 1917.

Dear Br Stilwell,

I examined Mr P. R. Adams again carefully yesterday (June 25th,) and I am glad to find that the fluid that he had in his pleura when I last saw him has now all absorbed. I found, however, weaker breathing and deficient expansion on the right side and he has a sharp pain when he breathes deeply or coughs. He looks thin and ill and seems very weak; he also tells me that he has night sweats, but they are getting less.

I was very interested to see the X Ray photograph of his chest and the appearance, as you say, is certainly suggestive of enlarged glands. Taking the case as a whole, I should think there is very little doubt that the pleurisy was a tubercular manifestation and so far as the family history is concerned, tubercular glands in the neck seem to be of frequent occurrence.

It is quite clear that he is still a long way from being well and that he will take a very considerable time to convalesce; I think it is impossible to give any approximate date when he will be fit to resume any military duties and personally I think it is doubtful whether he will ever stand bad weather and much fatigue. I feel sure the best thing for him would be to go back to his open air farm life in Canada.

Yours very truly,

(Sgd) H.Campbell Thomson.
