(Further ... at back)

Instructions as to Evidence in Cases of Self-Inflicted Wounds.

1. Charges for self-inflicted wounds, when not wilful, but due to negligence, will be laid under Section 40 of Army Act ("neglect to the prejudice, etc.")

2. Only short statements of witnesses bearing on essential facts are needed, e.g., such facts as :—

Where accused and witness were ("standing on the fire step together," "sitting in a dug-out"); that the accused was cleaning his rifle; position of safety catch, magazine, etc., if known; that accused pulled trigger; muzzle of rifle on toe of foot; hand on muzzle; empty cartridge case in chamber; that accused was seen to be wounded; what accused said ("I have shot myself," "I did not know it was loaded"); that accused took a detonator out of his pocket; etc.

A soldier is specially trained in the safe use of rifles, bombs and other weapons, and evidence of any breach of rules as to their handling in such cases usually has considerable bearing on the question of negligence. In cases of wilful self-wounding, the fullest possible evidence should be got.

3. The statement of the wounded man should, if possible, be taken as a means of information, but it cannot be used before a Court-Martial.

4. A statement should, if possible, be signed by the witness and by the Officer who takes it.

5. If easily legible, originals of statements may be attached to the form. Demands for the multiplication of copies for purposes of record in different headquarter offices is to be deprecated. Convening Officers are reminded that such evidence is often taken by regimental authorities under difficult conditions, and everything should be done to reduce clerical work in the trenches and to ensure a speedy trial.

Space for further remarks (if any).
